History

“Stay afraid, but do it anyways.”

-Carrie Fischer

Jim Ward is a San Antonio native with a lifelong passion for history. He graduated from George W. Brackenridge High School with honors and college credit under his belt. From a young age, Ward knew history was his calling. During his time at San Antonio College, Ward co-founded the Gender and Sexuality Association, dedicated to providing an inclusive space for students on campus. He participated in and curated the LGBT+ and Women's History Month Exhibits, while also organizing events during SAC's celebration of Coming Out Day. Jim is a member of the San Antonio College Honors Academy.

After graduating from SAC, he plans to go out of state to earn a bachelor's degree in history and anthropology and, eventually, attend law school to become a public interest lawyer. His ultimate aspiration is to work with the American Civil Liberties Union, protecting the rights of individuals in America.
